INTRODUCTION

Residents of condominiums in New York have become increasingly aware of the secondhand smoke that drifts into their units. Accustomed to working in smoke-free offices and eating in smoke-free restaurants, a vast majority of New Yorkers know the risks associated with secondhand smoke exposure and consider living in a smoke-free home a must. Because this must is dependent on the decision of their neighbors to smoke or not smoke indoors, many residents of multi-unit dwellings are seeking to adopt smoke-free policies for their buildings.

Exposure to secondhand tobacco smoke is not just an annoyance, it's a serious health hazard. "Secondhand smoke" refers to the direct smoke from a lit cigarette or other tobacco product and indirect smoke exhaled by smokers. There are no safe levels of secondhand smoke for children or adults, yet non-smokers are regularly exposed to this health risk.¹ In multi-unit buildings, secondhand smoke can seep under doors and through ventilation ducts, electrical outlets and light fixtures into neighboring units and common areas. Even ventilation systems fail to completely eliminate secondhand smoke drift.²

- Secondhand smoke (SHS) is toxic.
- Exposure to SHS should be avoided.
- SHS exposure may be involuntary, as when smoke drifts through apartment walls.
- SHS drift cannot be completely stopped; only a smoke-free policy ensures reduced SHS exposure.
- SF policies are a legal, effective method of preventing SHS exposure and limiting its adverse health effects.

Indoor cigarette smoking presents a further health hazard in that it is a leading cause of residential fires and the number one cause of home fire-related deaths.³ Multi-unit housing, such as condos, is especially susceptible to fires spreading from neighboring units.

A smoke-free policy refers to an explicit smoking restriction for condominiums – both inside and outside of individual units (including balconies, decks and patios) and all common areas. Smoking is prohibited in building entryways and from a designated building perimeter (if not the entire property).

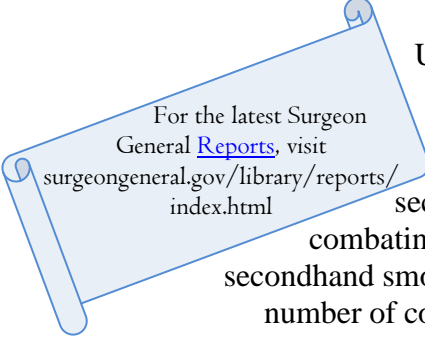

Smoke-free policies not only provide health benefits for people and pets living in these buildings, they offer owners potential financial advantages as well. Owners can avoid costly repairs to due to cigarette and smoke damage as well as protect their investment. As the market for smoke-free properties increases, properties with smoke-free policies in place may find increased resale value.⁴ These health, safety and economic benefits have been a collective driving force behind the implementation of smoke-free policies in condominiums throughout New York and the nation.

Good news for owners and governing boards: smoke-free policies are enforceable and implementation is straightforward. This guide outlines the steps necessary to establish a smoke-free policy in a condominium. It also contains specifics on the benefits of such a policy, an example of a smoke-free policy and other tools to aid your policy implementation efforts. With this guide and some patience, you will soon be rewarded with a healthier, safer and more desirable living environment.

BENEFITS OF A SMOKE-FREE POLICY

Health Benefits

Many health problems are caused or worsened by exposure to secondhand smoke. These include cancer, heart disease, atherosclerosis, asthma, respiratory and ear infections, Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, decreased fertility and adverse pregnancy outcomes.⁵ Children exposed to secondhand smoke are more likely to develop asthma, ear infections and wheeze illnesses.⁶ Reducing exposure to secondhand smoke will decrease the frequency, severity and overall likelihood of suffering from these health issues.

For the latest Surgeon General Reports, visit surgeongeneral.gov/library/reports/index.html

Unfortunately, even seemingly minimal exposure to secondhand smoke may inflict negative health consequences.⁷ Residents are exposed to toxins when breathing smoke lingering near building entryways and drifting between units through windows, outlets and ductwork. Mechanical solutions to secondhand smoke drift, such as ventilation and plugging, are not successful in combating secondhand smoke.⁸ The most effective way to reduce exposure to secondhand smoke drift is to make condominiums completely smoke-free. An increasing number of condos have successfully implemented smoke-free policies to eliminate exposure to secondhand smoke.⁹

Financial Benefits

In New York and nationwide there is growing market support for smoke-free housing. Utah's legislature enacted a state law explicitly authorizing smoke-free condo bylaws.¹⁰ Multi-unit developments across New York have successfully implemented smoke-free policies, and New York and other states and cities offer smoke-free registries to assist those exclusively seeking smoke-free housing.¹¹

Beyond an increasing desire for smoke-free housing, surveys suggest smoke-free properties may render a higher rental or purchase price.¹² In a recent survey of New York City residents, 58% reported they would pay more to live in smoke-free housing.¹³ As smoking rates decrease and awareness of the dangers of secondhand smoke exposure increases, demand for smoke-free housing will likely continue to rise. This increased demand will benefit owners of condos with smoke-free policies already in place.

Further, not allowing lit cigarettes, cigars and pipes on condo property reduces the incidence of property damage - such as burns, stains, and odors - that these products and their smoke frequently cause. For example, attempting to remove smoke odor, discoloration and chemicals through refurbishing upholstery, carpets and curtains is a typical yet costly fix and does not guarantee the desired result.¹⁴ Since smoke residue lingers and is difficult to remove, condos with smoke-free policies may save on building maintenance costs and present common areas and units that are more attractive for rental and sale.¹⁵

Of additional benefit, buildings with smoke-free policies are less likely to suffer unintentional fires and accompanying financial (and other) losses. A condo may even receive reduced casualty or liability insurance rates after implementing a smoke-free policy.

Legal Benefits

Condo associations may legally implement a smoke-free policy because smoking is not a right protected by the U.S. Constitution,¹⁶ federal law¹⁷ or New York State law.¹⁸ In a case brought under the Fair Housing Act, a court ordered the implementation of a smoke-free policy to satisfy the “reasonable accommodation” requirement for a disabled tenant negatively impacted by the smoking.¹⁹ A Colorado court found a condo’s smoke-free policy enforceable, despite owners not being given notice of the policy.²⁰ Further, a New York court found secondhand smoke may constitute “unreasonable interference” with the use of common areas and that it is within a condo board’s right to stop smoke infiltration and seek damages for repeat violations.²¹

Although condo boards are often concerned about the legality of implementing a smoke-free policy, boards allowing on-premises smoking may be vulnerable to legal action by residents resultantly harmed by secondhand smoke. Condo boards have a duty to act in the best interests of its members.²² Failing to prevent harm from secondhand smoke infiltration could lead to successful claims of nuisance,²³ negligence, breach of warranty of habitability,²⁴ constructive eviction,²⁵ or breach of the covenant of quiet enjoyment against a condo board and/or individual owners. Including a smoke-free policy in the condo bylaws provides a written rule and therefore clear notice to owners and unambiguous enforcement justification by the board (or a court, should the rule be challenged). A smoke-free bylaw should increase compliance and otherwise reduce the likelihood of claims from harm caused by secondhand smoke.

Condo smoke-free policies are healthful, market-supported and legal. Reminding other owners of these benefits may motivate your condo association to implement its own smoke-free policy.

IMPLEMENTING A SMOKE-FREE POLICY: Amending Your Condo’s Bylaws

Condo Association Bylaws

An effective smoke-free policy will be included in a condo’s bylaws. Condo bylaws exist to promote the “health, happiness and peace of mind” of all the unit owners, including non-smokers.²⁶ Many condo bylaws already include provisions restricting activities that unreasonably interfere with another owner’s enjoyment. For example, it is common for condo bylaws to include restrictions on noise and rental agreements.

In order to create a new condo bylaw, such as a smoke-free policy, you will need a written rule which owners vote to adopt. Your condo association likely has existing bylaws which specify how to request a vote and how many votes are needed to approve a new policy.²⁷ If you do not have a copy of these bylaws, you may request a set from your condo board. Reviewing your condo’s bylaws is a good way to start your quest for a smoke-free policy and may allow you to confidentially discuss procedures with other owners and the board members.²⁸

The Essentials:

- ☑ A written smoke-free policy.
- ☑ A passing vote by condo owners.
- ☑ Proper recordation (e.g., file with the Office of Registry of Deeds and Department of State).

The following steps are designed to assist you with crafting and implementing a smoke-free policy that is right for your multiunit housing community. As they are meant to be guidelines, you may choose to reorder or otherwise adapt them to best serve your needs.

Step 1: Educate Owners

Survey all owners and learn their support for and understanding of a smoke-free policy. (A sample survey is in Appendix B.) Regardless of the survey results, communicate with all owners and residents about the proposed smoke-free policy and the reasons for implementing one. You may want to address the dangers of secondhand smoke and its unstoppable drift, why a smoke-free policy is the best solution to limit exposure, as well as the other health, financial and legal benefits to going smoke-free. Ascertain owners' understanding of the policy, how it will affect them, and whether they support a smoke-free policy. Use these conversations along with the survey results to learn about concerns, correct misconceptions and gain widespread support from even reluctant owners. Focus on the problem of secondhand smoke and don't vilify smokers. Your time investment will help you tailor a policy to your association's needs, increase overall support and minimize surprise and complaints down the road.

Keep detailed records of when and how smoke is affecting your unit and what has been done to address the issue. If applicable, include medical documentation. These records may be helpful in educating and persuading the board or other owners about the importance of the proposed smoke-free policy.

Voice concerns to the board and encourage others to do the same. Issues of widespread concern generally garner more attention and may be more quickly resolved.

Step 2: Draft the Smoke-Free Policy

Have a clear objective for your smoke-free policy in mind and begin drafting the amendment. If you get stuck while writing, it may be helpful to review this objective and consider how each clause helps achieve it. You will want to include this statement of purpose in the amendment – it creates a record of the “why” behind the policy. (An example bylaw amendment is provided in Appendix D.)

What is “smoking”?

“Smoking” should be defined broadly to ensure the policy is effective. You may define smoking as “carrying, burning, or otherwise handling or controlling any lit or smoldering product containing tobacco or cloves, including but not limited to cigarettes, cigars, or pipes.”²⁹ Define other key terms to ensure everyone has the same understanding of their meaning.

A policy “grandfathering” current smokers means allowing smoking in specific units for some period of time or until that unit is sold or conveyed.

Grandfathering limits the policy's health benefits and may create enforcement confusion. If a grandfather provision appears to be a required compromise, you may wish to wait until the association has enough support for a complete smoke-free policy.

Who will the rule apply to?

In addition to the unit owner, smoking should not be permitted by any resident, tenant, or guest anywhere on the property where the rule is in effect.

Where is smoking restricted?

Clearly state which areas are designated smoke-free. This could include common areas and individual units, indoors and out. You may define an “individual unit” to include decks, patios, balconies, and other exclusive use outdoor areas attached to the unit.

Likewise, outdoor common areas such as roof-decks, sheds and vestibules may be designated smoke-free. If your policy does not prohibit smoking from the entire condo grounds, be sure to designate a smoke-free perimeter with enough distance to ensure smoke cannot drift through windows, entryways or overcome outdoor smoke-free common areas.

When will the rule become effective?

Determine when the rule will become effective and include the date or timeframe in the rule.

How is the policy enforced?

The rule should identify who is charged with ensuring compliance and the consequences for an infraction. For guidance, look to your condo's existing enforcement provisions for other policy violations, such as loud music or personal storage in common areas. Response to any reported policy violations must be prompt and consistent; this both aids policy effectiveness and also ensures there is no misinterpretation of consent.³⁰ Consider complaint-driven progressive enforcement, beginning with a friendly reminder or warning, moving to fines and culminating with more drastic measures, such as court action or eviction.³¹ To the extent fines are used, the value should not exceed the approximate costs smoking causes the condo association (costs may include repair, replacement and labor maintenance as well as costs administering the policy).³²

In addition to the above policy specifics, the bylaw should address the following:

Condo information: State the name of the condominium, the date and location of the master deed and the declaration of trust (if applicable), and that the association adopts the terms set forth in the document as an amendment to the association's bylaws.

Board's Power: State the board's power to oversee the administration and operation of the condominium.

Unit Owners' Rights: Reaffirm that unit owners are entitled to exclusive ownership and possession of their units pursuant to N.Y. Real Prop. Law § 339-h, but also must abide by the rules and regulations in regards to the maintenance and repair of their units pursuant to the condominium's governing documents (i.e. bylaws, declaration of trust, etc.).

Objectives and Stated Purpose: As discussed above, outline the facts and purpose for adopting the policy. For example, state that secondhand smoke is hazardous to health and a complete prohibition is the only proven way to limit secondhand smoke exposure (e.g., ventilation systems have not been proven to reduce exposure). You may also discuss the fire hazard, maintenance and repair costs associated with smoking.

Approval: After the amendment passes, include acknowledgment that a vote was administered according to the bylaws and approved by a sufficient majority.

Recordation & Seal: Write the date of passage on the bylaw amendment and have all trustees/board of managers sign the amendment. You may have a notary public witness the signatures and submit a signed certification statement. Bring the signed bylaw amendment and certification statement to the same registry of deeds where the condominium's master deed and declaration of trusts are recorded (likely the City Register and Department of State).

Step 3: Enact the Smoke-Free Policy

Common areas

Condominium trustees typically have the authority to establish rules for common areas. This means they could make outdoor and non-

New Building or Condo Association?

It is even more straight forward to implement a smoke-free policy in new buildings or in buildings where no units have been purchased (for example, when converting an existing building into a condominium). A smoke-free rule may simply be included as a bylaw along with other conditions, covenants and restrictions within the master deed and/or declaration of trust. Enforcement methods in new buildings may mirror those discussed in this guide.

enclosed common areas - such as fire escapes, roofs, decks, entryways, steps - smoke-free right away. Consult the condominium's master deed and declaration of trust to determine exactly what steps are required to amend common area rules.

Exclusive use areas

Enacting a smoke-free policy is a material change to the bylaws and therefore requires a passing vote by the condo owners.³³ The number and percentage of votes needed for an amendment to pass should be defined in your condo's bylaws. If your bylaws do not include how many votes are needed to pass a new rule, the association will follow New York's default rule, which requires at least two-thirds (66%) of owners vote in favor of the rule.³⁴

The amendment may be voted on at the owners' annual meeting or a specially scheduled meeting. Consult your condominium bylaws for rules on calling meetings and other procedural requirements.

Wait until you are confident you have the required votes to pass a comprehensive smoke-free policy before calling for a vote on the policy. Once the smoke-free policy is voted in, the new rule is added to your condo's bylaws and should be recorded at the same registry of deeds where the condominium's master deed and declaration of trusts are recorded. New York law requires also filing the amendment with the Department of State.³⁵

Step 4: Enforce the Smoke-Free Policy

The no-smoking rule will be largely self-enforcing. The following strategies may aid success:

- Provide each resident and owner a copy of the rule change or bylaw amendment.
- Post "No Smoking" or "Smoke-Free Area" signs in conspicuous places and anywhere violations occur.
- Remove ashtrays and cigarette butts from common areas and repair damage from prior smoking; this will encourage residents to abide by the smoke-free policy.
- Document potential violations. Residents who smell smoke should record when and where it was noted and from where it might have originated. Complaints should be filed with the Trustees or as specified in the bylaw.
- Violations of the smoke-free policy should be treated like any other rule violation: enforcement should be prompt, consistent and in accordance with the policy's enforcement clause.
- Ensure that owners are aware that they will be held responsible for the policy, even when it is violated by their guest or tenant.

IMPLEMENTING A SMOKE-FREE POLICY: FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. Are there any legal barriers to adopting a smoke-free policy for community associations?

Federal and state laws allow private property owners and associations to adopt a smoke-free policy for all parts of their property, including individual residential units.

2. Is prohibiting smoking discriminating in any way?

No. Smoking is not a protected right or activity. Also, an individual's status as a smoker is not a protected category of persons. Attempts by smokers to be considered disabled due to an addiction to nicotine have not been successful, so smokers do not receive protection under state or federal disability statutes. A number of condominiums in New York and across the country have successfully implemented smoke-free policies in their condominiums.

3. Will legal liability increase after a smoke-free policy is instituted?

Condominium Associations have a duty to act in the best interests of its members. This means that regardless of whether or not the Association has a smoke-free policy, owners may successfully argue that the association must act to stop secondhand smoke. Implementing a smoke-free policy should deter smoking on the property, decreasing the likelihood of liability claims.

4. Is it difficult to enforce a smoke-free policy?

As with other association rules, such as those prohibiting loud music or overcrowding, it is important to create a clear policy with set consequences for policy violations. Further, enforcement must be prompt and consistent. Enforcement may be progressive, perhaps starting with written warnings and increasing to fines. Be sure to consult with those ultimately responsible for ensuring compliance to ensure that the enforcement scheme is realistic.

A smoke-free policy is largely self-enforcing. Conducting a survey of your association residents may help foresee potential compliance problems and generate thoughtful solutions. Properties that have already adopted smoke-free policies report needing only minimal effort to enforce the policy.

5. Is the process of creating smoke-free condos expensive?

Costs may be nominal and limited to printing educational materials, surveys and the policy (costs eliminated altogether if email is used), "no-smoking" signs for common areas and filing fees to record the bylaw amendment. If your association opts to hire an attorney to assist with the drafting process, or elects to construct an outdoor smoking area, it may incur additional costs for these services.

Consider any costs an investment in the building and your health. Unlike costly cleaning and mechanical devices, an effective smoke-free policy eliminates the secondhand smoke hazard and thereby reduces related health risks and discomfort. Buildings with smoke-free policies may also enjoy savings on insurance costs and building maintenance and experience a rise in market value.

CREATING A RESIDENT SURVEY

When conducting the survey, consider offering an incentive, such as a gift card or raffle ticket to encourage residents to complete the survey.

State your purpose clearly in the heading. Your objective may be to review your building's smoke-free policy or to determine receptiveness to a smoke-free policy. Advise residents and owners that their participation in the survey will help the association reduce smoking-related complaints and that their answers will be kept confidential. Be sure to leave room for additional comments and include a deadline for completing the survey. At the end, thank them for their times and answers, and let them know you will keep them informed on upcoming meetings or proposed policy changes.

SAMPLE LETTER PROPOSING A SMOKE-FREE RULE

Dear Unit Owner:

The Board of _____ [Condominium Name] is writing to request your support to designate our property as smoke-free.

Smoking in the building can expose nonsmoking residents to secondhand tobacco smoke. Research shows that secondhand smoke can drift under doors and through ventilation ducts, electrical outlets and light fixtures into neighboring units and common areas. Once in neighboring units or common areas, the smoke can stay in the air for hours. The potential for exposure raises serious health concerns for our residents, especially children and those who are especially susceptible to secondhand smoke. Some of the health effects include the following:

- Nonsmokers who are exposed increase their risk of developing heart disease by 25-30 percent.
- Nonsmokers who are exposed increase their risk of developing lung cancer by 20-30 percent.
- Children exposed to secondhand smoke are more likely to develop bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma, and ear infections.
- Secondhand smoke has been linked to Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.
- Even brief exposure to secondhand smoke can have immediate adverse effects of triggering asthma attacks and increase the risk of a heart attack.

The risk of fire is also a concern, both for smokers as well as their non-smoking neighbors. Cigarettes are the leading cause of home fire deaths and cause $418 million in damage each year in the United States. One of four people killed in home fires are not the smoker whose cigarette caused the fire.

The only effective way to address these concerns is by designating our property as entirely smoke-free. According to the American Society for Heating, Refrigerating and Air Conditioning Engineers, no standard ventilation system or air purifier can completely remove secondhand smoke. Accordingly, we invite the members of the condominium association to consider the following proposed rule change. Smoking will be prohibited everywhere on the property, including all indoor and outdoor common areas, all individual units and all indoor and outdoor exclusive use areas (exclusive use areas include decks, patios, parking spaces and other such areas belonging to individual unit owners). The trustees may designate an outdoor smoking area, but would locate the area away from the building where there is no potential for involuntary exposure.

The condominium association is proposing an immediate no-smoking policy throughout the entire condo building, including all common areas and individual units (including balconies). We also propose a smoke-free area within 25 feet of the building.

Before formally proposing and putting it to a vote we want to first obtain as much owner input as possible. For this purpose we will hold an informal informational meeting on _____ at _____ p.m. If you are unable to attend please contact us with questions and concerns.

Thank you,
Board of Managers
